Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5, 7-22, and 29-39 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 5,780,047 ("Kamiya").

Kamiya discloses a device for delivering at least one active agent to a localized body surface (see col. 1, lines 4-12) comprising:

- the cold water-soluble carrier of instant claim 1 (see col. 2, lines 14-49);
- the cold water-soluble adhesive of instant claim 1 (see col. 4, line 36);
- the support layer of instant claim 1 (see col. 10, line 44);
- the nonwoven fabric of instant claim 2 (see col. 6, line 2);
- the monomers of instant claim 3 (see col. 4, line 12);
- the polyvinyl alcohol of instant claim 4 (see col. 3, lines 7-8);

- the water-soluble monomer of instant claim 12 (see col. 4, line 12);
- the polysaccharide of instant claim 13 (see col. 3, line 24);
- the polymeric film of instant claim 14 (see col. 5, line 40);
- the cold water-soluble carrier of instant claim 15 (see col. 2, lines 14-49);
- the cold water-soluble adhesive of instant claim 15 (see col. 4, line 36);

The processes claims 23-28 are not essential to a determination of patentability of the system disclosed in the claim. The patentability of product-by-process claims is based on the product itself. "[E]ven though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process." In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed. Cir. 1985).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 5,780,047 ("Kamiya") in view of U.S. Patent No. 5,028,435 ("Katz").

Kamiya teaches a device for delivering at least one active agent to a localized body surface (see above).

Kamiya explains that the disclosed device is beneficial because it, "...can exert excellent effects of relieving topical symptoms of a human body." See col. 2, lines 15-16.

The Kamiya reference differs from the instant case in that it does not teach the arabinogalactan of instant claim 6.

Katz, et. al. teach use of a protein and a carbohydrate in a transdermal system.

Katz, et. al disclose a transdermal delivery system comprising a backing having a matrix layer which incorporates a drug and a percutaneous enhancer for the drug. At least one of the drug and enhancer is contained within a plurality of polymeric particles dispersed throughout the matrix layer (see col. 3, lines 58-62). The particles may be formed using natural polymers such as arabinogalactan (see col. 7, lines 28-32).

Katz, et. al. explain that polymers such as arabinogalactan and gelatin are useful because they contribute to the stability of the transdermal drug delivery device, as well as to a long shelf life for the device (see col. 7, lines 14-19).

Thus, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to add a protein, such as collagen, and a carbohydrate, such as arabinogalactan to a transdermal delivery device, as taught by Kamiya in view of Katz, et. al. Motivation to do so, as explained above, would come from increased stability and longer self life of the device.
